Animal scientists conduct research on domestic farms to develop more efficient ways of producing a farmer (eg, milk, wool). They also advise farmers on adequate housing and nutrition for the animal and how to control diseases, care and maintenance, and even aspects of genetics.

Quick facts
- Salary: $64,020
- Education: Bachelor's degree in Animal Science or similar

Soft skills
- resourcefulness
- adaptability
- willingness to get dirty

Hard skills
- biology
- nutrition
- genetic

Animal scientist

More in careerinstem.com